

Catch Me If You Can

One of the ways animals protect themselves from predators, animals that might eat them, is with camouflage. Often an animal will have some features that make it look like its environment. Find a chameleon, a leopard and a hyena in the picture below. Then look up these animals in the encyclopedia to find out what kind of protection nature has given them.

Earth Alert: What kind of protection do animals have against man?

---

---

---

---